Interviews with Influencers: Dr. Leonard Taylor

Chazz Robinson, Education Policy Advisor, Romelo Wilson, Education Communications Advisor

We're excited to relaunch one of our signature series, Interviews with Influencers! In our first episode, Chazz Robinson (Education Policy Advisor) sits down with Dr. Leonard Taylor, Director of the National Survey of Student Engagement and Associate Professor at Indiana University Bloomington. Together, they dive into key issues shaping student success—from emerging trends in student engagement data to how institutions can use data to drive better outcomes. They also discuss the ethical considerations of data collection and explore how the Trump Administration may impact the future of higher education.
